save the credit of the province from injury. One of the embarrassing problems with which the provincial authorities now find themselves confronted is that of land taken over by the municipality at tax sales. The taxes formerly paid by this land now have to be collected from the other taxpayers in the community, which imposes a heavy burden on the province. The provincial treasurer announced a few days ago that the question was to be taken up in conference with the Dominion authorities, in hope that some means could be devised for turning this non-revenue-producing land to account in some way so as to get money out of it. The incident is not without local interest in view of the approach of a tax sale, and also of the recent amendment to the city charter by which the city is obliged to take over all land which is offered at tax sales but not sold. The number of such being very small, which means that unless the sale is very successful the city will be obliged to take over a large amount of property, which thereby becomes temporarily exempt from taxation, and that takes on the province the burden of improvements and income will be proportionately increased. The incident is a reminder that it is one thing to take over unuseable property and another thing to get revenue out of it.

To Quit or Not to Quit

Toronto's patriotism has been put to the test. Sir Robert Borden has had to refuse requests for expenditures on harbor improvements. An apprehensive country will now await Toronto's decision as to whether it will quit the war.

Courage Versus Indifference

The Saskatchewan Daily Star (Unionist), says "it would take courage to remove the duties on agricultural implements. Perhaps so. But it takes a callous indifference to the national interests and to food hunger not to do it."

Outspoken at Least

William Currie, M.P., demands a 10% increase in the tariff. Canada, he says, cannot get any benefit out of the war, and our only chance of indemnity lies in business expansion. Wherefore he demands that the tariff be developed manufacturing interests for the future conquest of foreign markets. The colonel is at least outspoken. He makes no hypocritical pretense as trying to "win the war" by raising the duties. It is the economic results he is worried, and he says so plainly. There are, of course, people who will disagree with his premises, but who think it a poor sort of compensation for the sacrifice the Canadian people are making in the war.

Quebec Exemptions Again

A Canadian press dispatch dated Quebec, May 10th, states the central appeal judge, Mr. Justice Duff, of the supreme court, Ottawa, has granted exemption from military service to all the "shipyard employees working on 'shipbuilding at the Davis yards.'" It is a very curious exemption act expressly provides that: "Any exemption therefore granted to any man on any basis named age or year of birth shall 'cease and no claim for exemption by or in respect of any man shall be entertained or considered,' 'ed,' except that the minister may grant exemption because of the service of one of his sons in the family in the actual theatre of war. The act distinctly holds out that there shall be no exemptions. It is on the supposed universal and equal application of the act that farming operations are largely being brought to a standstill throughout the prairie West. There is need of ships and food and other necessities, certainly true. But unless the food is produced the ships can't be built. Exemptions of this kind are the drastic drifting of farmers does not seem to be the best way to meet the case. The Quebec shipbuilding industry, Quebec, evidently has a bigger pull with the Union government than have the farmers of Alberta.

A B.O. President

The municipal council of South Vancouver being unable to meet its obligations, the provincial authorities took charge of the situation, and are now preparing to take over the city.

Britishers Respond

Despatches from Australia note that enlistments there are increasing. The return for the last week being the best in many months. The desperate fighting on the Western front, and the advance of the British army, are being the best in many months. Oil Wanted

A press dispatch from Washington, dated May 10th, announces that to relieve the fuel oil shortage in California an order is being issued prohibiting the use of fuel oil in parts of the Pacific North-West, Oregon, Washington, Alaska and British Columbia will be affected by the order. Not long since it was supposed that there was enough fuel oil available in California to supply the world. What the flow is, and the demand for it, has so suddenly increased, does not seriously matter. The point is that the responsibility of the highest authority in the United States the transportation and other industries which have been dependent on fuel oil for some years past, will have to either find some other source of supply or to fuel to their utter ruin. An enormous amount of fuel oil is used in the transportation industry, and the supply is being cut off. The C.P.R. and G.T.P. railway lines use oil west of the mountains, and the supply is being cut off. The coast use it almost entirely; besides, many industries on the coast are equally dependent on fuel oil.

Oil Wanted

A press dispatch from Washington, dated May 10th, announces that to relieve the fuel oil shortage in California an order is being issued prohibiting the use of fuel oil in parts of the Pacific North-West, Oregon, Washington, Alaska and British Columbia will be affected by the order. Not long since it was supposed that there was enough fuel oil available in California to supply the world. What the flow is, and the demand for it, has so suddenly increased, does not seriously matter. The point is that the responsibility of the highest authority in the United States the transportation and other industries which have been dependent on fuel oil for some years past, will have to either find some other source of supply or to fuel to their utter ruin. An enormous amount of fuel oil is used in the transportation industry, and the supply is being cut off. The C.P.R. and G.T.P. railway lines use oil west of the mountains, and the supply is being cut off. The coast use it almost entirely; besides, many industries on the coast are equally dependent on fuel oil.

Striking Proof of Protective Power British-U.S. Navies

London, May 13.—(Reuter)—The last conclusive evidence we have seen of the failure of the enemy's submarine campaign is the huge American army in France, the hundreds of thousands of tons of stores brought across the Atlantic, said James Wilson, chairman of the American labor delegation, when interviewed on returning to England from a visit to France and the American army. "These vast quantities of war," he added, "stand as irrefutable proof of the protective power of the British and American navies. Less than twelve months have passed since General Pershing landed in France with fifty men. The developments which have taken place since seem little short of miraculous. We were amazed at the work of the supermen of the British and American armies."

"Everywhere among the American troops is a feeling of absolute confidence in their power to be stood successfully, any offensive launched against them. Their spirit is that of the British and French troops, is wonderful."

present all I can say is that I am convinced that the document has not been issued with the knowledge of the British cabinet.

Washington, D.C., May 13.—United States Secretary of War Baker today added his formal dissent to that of the British cabinet.

He said the facts were directly opposed to the statements and American troops were being used to meet with the approval of General Foch and Pershing.

The statement attributed to the British war cabinet to the effect that the Allies are so confident that having been given the choice of a small immediate American army for defense or waiting till they are reinforced by a complete, powerful, self-supporting American army, they have chosen the latter, is a distortion of the truth.

All information by me from the British war cabinet, and that to the effect that the British war cabinet is so confident that having been given the choice of a small immediate American army for defense or waiting till they are reinforced by a complete, powerful, self-supporting American army, they have chosen the latter, is a distortion of the truth.
